A: from my experience, yes video streaming is nice, but can't keep up your house and get so much trouble to you, I mean some people tend to do some malicious operations like jailbreaking your iPad or iPhone and get it to do what ever they want, so obviously they steal or crack your wi-fi or router and then connect to it from your router and then hack your network by getting your computer or phone or iPad connected to it and then they can watch your video through it and if you had a firewall it could block that connection so you don't have to worry about it. but I have an apple phone and I don't jailbreak so I use steganography for watching video from something else. and a question too if you can't connect your phone to the internet but you have a access point with wifi does it have to be on open? :1.0.0.1/routes.php:4 1.0.0.1/routes.php:12 1.0.0.1/routes.php:21 1.0.0.2/routes.php:4 1.0.0.2/routes.php:12 1.0.0.2/routes.php:21 1.0.0.3/routes.php:4 1.0.0.3/routes.php:12 1.0.0.3/routes.php:21 This is only a partial snapshot of the problem, which extends to the single file case, and includes overwritten files which are still reachable. What could be causing this? A: I figured out what was causing the issue. The bin directory was outside the html directory, and of course the web server had nothing to do with that. Everything was ok. Q: Can you define non-diagonal part of a vector in TensorFlow? In TensorFlow, I would like to compare two vectors and keep only the non-diagonal elements. How do I express such operation in TensorFlow? A: So if your question is how to only keep the non-diagonal elements in a 2D tensor then this might work for you.
`tf.matmul(tf.linalg.diag(`
